JAPANESE FAVORABLE CONDITIONS.

HE REACTION STRENGTHENED THE SITUATION.

Trade W Dull is no Argument ks"-Rallroad Earnings Display Satisfactory Gains.

NEW YORK, May 2.-Favorable conditions Prices have risen fairly, and the reactions which accompanied the advance simply served to strengthen the situation by en-couraging new buying and giving the market a more substantial basis. The outside day, and shows a confidence which the at-tacks of traders and professionals were unable to weaken. There is no question about present conditions justifying the higher range of values. As already shown in these advices, the crop situation is strongly in our favor; and the effect of full crops here, with a shortage abroad, is now heringing to be appreciated. That now beginning to be appreciated. That now beginning to be appreciated. Inst general trade is dull is no argument against stocks, for experience shows that activity in both is rarely coincident. When busi-ness is on the rush merchants find more in-crative employment for their funds than in Wall street. In the coal and iron trades, however, there is an improved tone, and this necessarily strengthens confidence in that class of stocks. The averting of the threatened miners' strike for eight hours is also reassuring, as it indicates a more tem-perate policy on the part of labor leaders. For the last three or four years the whole country has been thrown into a state of apprehensiveness about May 1, by immense labor demonstrations, but the condition of the coal trade was unfavorable to the de-mands made this year, and the leaders showed their wisdom in waiting for a better opportunity. Railroad earnings display very satisfactory gains, considering the heavy totals of last year, with which they are compared; and several important sys are compared; and several important sys-tems are expected to make better net com-parisons in future, owing to a reduction in expenses for betterments. London has again become a purchaser of American stocks, and the continuance of the Bank of England rate at 3½ per cent, in spite of ex-pectations to the contrary, had a stimulating effect upon this market. Gold shipmores effect upon this market. Gold shipments continue, over $4,000,000 having been shipped this week, but the foreign demand for stocks serves to somewhat counteract this movement. Thursday's meeting of railroad managers was entirely satisfactory and harmonious. Under these circumstances I am inclined to the belief in well-sustained prices. At the same time, values have already experienced a considerable advance, and realizing movements are to be expected.

The market is still very susceptible to unfavorable influences, so that buying must be conducted with pradence, and on all good rallies it is advisable to secure profits.

A good deal of foolish talk about the future of the monay market has been received.

ure of the money market has been excited by probable demands upon the treasury re-sulting from the extraordinary appropriations of the last congress. Attention to the matter was emphasized by Secretary Foster's action in discontinuing the purchase of 4½ per cent bonds for the avowed purpose of "reserving the residue of the 4½ per cent loan for adjustment within the figure and loan for adjustment within the figure cent loan for adjustment within pose of "reserving the residue of the 41cal year which begins on the 1st day of July next." This action on his part was simply a precautionary measure, and one to be emphatically indorsed. In the present condition of the money market, there is no occasion whatever for the treasury buying bonds to satisfy currency demands. During the next fiscal year sinking fund require ments will call for about forty million dol-lars, and it is certainly prudent on the part of the secretary to strengthen his resources against future demands at a time when, like the present, such action will be least felt. Moreover, there are about $51,000,000 of these 4½ per cent bonds outstanding, of which over twenty-four million dollars are held by national banks as a basis

lars are held by national banks as a basis for circulation, and a number of prominent bank officials have taken particular pains to impress the secretary with the advantage of extending these bonds, temporarily at least, at 2 per cent; thus saving the banks the necessity of further contraction in circulation, and relieving the treasury of the obligation of redeeming all or part of the $51,000,000, should such a course be deemed convenient. of redeeming all or part of the $51,000,000, should such a course be deemed convenient to the government. These considerations alone are sufficient to justify the temporary suspension of bond purchases. The apprehensions, however, that the treasury will be unable to meet its obligations are altogether groundless, and can only be attributed to ignorance, else to rumors circulated for speculative and political effect. The fear of intrenchment upon the traditional $100,000,000 gold reserve arises only from lack of knowledge as to the treasury's real lack of knowledge as to the treasury's real condition. At the present time there is in the treasury over $142,000,000 gold in excess of gold certificates outstanding. The banks hold $28,000,000 of government deposits; in addition to which the treasury holds about $20,000,000 of fractional silver and about $15,000,000 against which no certificates have been issued. Excluding the $100,000, 000 gold held for redemption of United States notes, here are resources available of not less than $105,000,000. It is quite true that the demands upon the treasury will be enormous at a time when his income will be curtailed by the abolishment of sugar duties. It is quite true, also, that those demands will oblige prudent management of the nation's finances; but the re-sources of our fiscal machinery are varied and ample enough to meet every difficulty. It should not be overlooked that many of the itabilities incurred by recent legislation enormous as they are, cannot all become due in a single year. Payments upon many of these appropriations, particularly those on public works, necessarily extend over a considerable period, and are not made in the lump; besides, the government can and always does consult its own convenience in respect to meeting a large portion of it current obligations. Differences of opinion may exist about the wisdom and extravagance of a congress which imposed such a burden upon the treasury; and in certain quarters efforts are certainly being made to exaggerate the changes in policy thus imposed, but all feers respecting the latter;

bility of the United States entering the market as a borrower next fall are likely to find themselves very much deceived.

much nonsense was talked to-day about damage to the wheat crop, growth, present cold weather and frost that an intelligent opinion is worth something. Here is one from a representative of the granger ele-ment in Wall street: The winter wheat crop, which is seeded in October, has passed through a severe winter, under a good thick covering of snow. Frost would this crop, which is a hardy one and will ripen about June. The spring crop, on the other hand, has just been seeded.

The effect of a frost on the ground now will be to send the growth of the seed further down and may delay wheat two or three days. It will then be stronger and better able to resist any further bad

COTTON RECEIPTS.

The Growth of the South Demonstrated by Cotton Receipts, Which Are 8,149,918 Bales.

New York, May 5.—The growth of the south is shown by the fact that the receipts of cotton, at the lowest prices had for years, were larger last month than in any previous April. It shows that after two good crops the farmers were able to hold on for good prices, and that they quickly appre-ciated a chance and were not anxious to be caught with too much on hand. Already receipts have been nearly a million bales is excess over the same time last year. Whil exports were 19 per cent greater in the first eight months of the year, cotton marketed was 8,140,018 bales, or more than one million bales in excess of the amount up to that time last year, which was the largest ever

Daily Review.

OFFICE OF THE GAZETTE. FORT WORTH, TEX., May 5, 1891. Trade brisk all over the city—both whole-sale and retail. There are a number of visiting merchants reported in the city placing orders and looking over stocks.

The general local markets are in fair condition, thereabeing a choice lot of vegetables and other country produce on the market. Prices are generally unchanged, and all markets are firm.

The Manufacturing Situation.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin of Sat-urday last says: The shoe factories continue to be very moderately employed and though they have a fair amount of orders ahead, business is not what it should be at the present time. There is not much building in the industry at present and but three new shops are reported this week, two of which are only contemplated. Of course which are only contemplated. Of course there are all the time more or less changes being made, but the building boom seems to have subsided. As noticed in the Bulletin, there were many new factories put in oper-ation the first of the year and as these are only nextfally ampliously the many less than the second only partially employed not much encour-agement is afforded manufacturers to start new shops under the present condition of the market.

The efforts on the part of the window glass manufacturers to advance their product, have been successful, and that article was advanced in price this week 15 or 20 per cent on previous quotations.
This advance is the outcome of more or less agitation of the subject by the makers.
There has for a long time been a division of opinion on the part of producers whether it was advisible, and not until recently was the question decided. It is to be hoped that an arrangement by the makers released. an arrangement by the various makers of windaw glass can be formed strong enough to keep prices up, for the market has been in a terribly unsettled state the past year through rate cutting.
